NEW VITALSTIM THERAPY CERTIFICATION COURSE

29 - 30 May 2015, Staffordshire, United Kingdom

VitalStim Therapy is a unique approach to the treatment of dysphagia by using a specialised delivery of Neuromuscular Electrical Stimulation(NMES)during swallowing exercise.

NICE has provided guidance that recommends NMES (IPG490) should be used with special arrangements for clinical governance, consent, audit or research in May 2014.

VitalStim Therapy has the potential to significantly impact healthcare cost.

The VitalStim Certification Course content will cover the theoretical background of this modality and the research supporting its use. There will be extensive hands-on time with the equipment. Dysphagia clinicians will acquire the knowledge and skill to incorporate VitalStim Therapy in their respective settings effectively and appropriately.
